Description

The used 2005 Rinker 232 Captiva is a smart choice for boaters looking for a well-rounded sports bowrider with space, style and reliable day-cruising appeal. At around 23 feet, it offers the kind of layout that works beautifully for relaxed family outings, watersports with friends or simply stretching out at anchor on a sunny afternoon. The Captiva range is known for its comfortable seating, practical cockpit design and confident handling, making this model a great fit for coastal cruising, lake adventures or weekend fun on the water. Depending on specification, a 2005 Rinker 232 Captiva may include features such as a swim platform, sun pad, walk-through windscreen, generous bow seating and an inboard engine set-up suited to towing wakeboards, skis or inflatables. As with any used boat, condition, service history, engine hours and trailer or equipment inclusions are key details to check, but a well-kept example can deliver excellent value and plenty of smiles per nautical mile.
